There is nothing to be afraid of

Sometimes we somehow get frightened, and a fear gets into the subconscious mind.
Consciously into the mind that you are immortal and that there is nothing to be afraid of. Think in a positive way. Boldly meditate on it.

Convince your conscious mind, and let the conviction sink into the subconscious mind. You can even make a tape of your own, put it under your pillow, and literally sleep on it. It will slowly sink into your subconscious mind. The fear has gone into the subconscious, and you need to replace it with positive thoughts. So, until the new ideas sink in, keep listening to them. Your mind is not completely sleeping, and your subconscious mind still be listening to the tapes.
When you are awake, consciously think of it, write down a reminder that you can read now and then. Put reminders everywhere until it's completely rooted out. Do all the positive things you can think of.

There are other ways also. But the yogic way is to put a new, opposite thought into the mind so that the undesirable thought will be squeezed out. And if you can't do it all by yourself, get help from others. So, build up the body, build up the nerves and build up the mind until your faith is so strong there is no fear at all and you are the master.

Student of the Week

Vinish. G is a student having a rare talent. An art-Kathakalashepam (The Art of Story Telling)- that is slowly getting into its sun-set days among students but Vinish. G of class VII, has come with a passion to revive it and reaching to the student community.

Inspired by her grandmother's art of story-telling, Vinish.G has taken a few lessons from her. He is gifted with such a wonderful narration of events and anecdotes from the lives of Gods and Goddesses. Vinish knew the art of reaching to the audience in his own style. While often children of his age are glued to TV, watching sports, music and films, Vinish watches TV, for different reasons- seeing the 'Upanyasam'- of great scholars. No wonder, his words and actions reflect a great level of maturity.

Velukudi Krishnan, the noted Vedic scholar who is an exponent in discourses inspired him, many times seeing him on TV. Vinish. G is a rare 'Gem' among students and may his tribe multiply to keep the culture and tradition of this great country alive. We, the editorial board wishes him good luck!

MY DAD'S BEST ADVICE

"The best inheritance a dad can give his child is a few minutes of his time each day". It is during such time spent together, that I inherited the best advice and encouragement from my dad that enabled me to grow in competence and slowly gain mastery over my life. The best advice my dad ever gave me was to always stay true to myself. He taught me the importance of integrity, emphasizing that one's character and values are paramount. He often said "In a world full of changes and uncertainties, being honest and authentic will not only earn you respect but also give you a peace of mind. He encouraged me to pursue my passions without fear of failure, reminding me that setbacks are just the stepping stones to success. This guidance instilled in me the courage to take risks and the resilience to bounce back from challenges. By living authentically and holding onto my values, I've been able to build meaningful purposes and lead a fulfilling life. "You never get to experience the same moment twice, so live your life to the fullest". His wisdom has been a compass, guiding me through life's complexities with confidence and clarity. I'm ever grateful to my dad for instilling in me such good qualities.
